Community Update – Jedburgh & District

School Link officer, PC Lawrence has been working with the school campus Community Learning and Development worker, Mary McDaid. They have been putting plans together to run a 4-week block of inputs called 'Imagine A Man'. This programme is based around positive masculinity. Pupils will be asked how they feel 'a man' is portrayed in society and how they have come to that decision.

Alongside this, there is a mirror programme called 'Lassies are not feert', which is a programme designed to increase young people's understanding of what young woman in Scotland experience and their involvement in violence.

PC Lawrence has also been working with a young people who are between the age of 8-11. Some of these young people may be on the cusp of committing crime but are currently under the age of criminal responsibility. This is to try and help steer the young people onto the correct path and discourage them from committing crime in the future.

Community Beat Officer, PC Tait-Logan has been involved in carrying out various patrols for operation Jackdaw aimed at tackling and reducing shoplifting throughout the ward area. She has also been working hard on reducing parking issues in Jedburgh High Street. Warnings have been given where appropriate, but parking tickets have also been issued when these have not been adhered to.

PC Tait-Logan is in the process of producing a leaflet for all residents and retailers reminding them of the parking restrictions in and around Jedburgh area.

PC Tait-Logan also attended Jedburgh remembrance parade and was responsible for road closures. Other community officers were present at the Christmas light switch on which was well attended by the local community.
